

BIOGRAPHY

After growing up and studying in Denmark, England, United States and Italy, I land in Spain in 1999 and work as a creative director in BBDO Madrid. After studying filmmaking and directing actors in Rome, London and New York, in 2003 I move into film directing thanks to Alamo Films. From then on, I worked for different production companies in Spain, Italy, Germany, Eastern Europe, Middle East and South America, shooting commercials for clients like McDonald's, Orange, Garnier, Movistar, Santander Bank, TVE, Ferrero, Boehringer, Sky, LIDL Germany and P&G among others, as well as the recent international campaigns for Lenovo, Bosch and Mercedes Benz.

My works have been selected and prized at festivals like CdC, El Sol and Cannes. My specialty is telling stories through human emotions as well as endowing the films with an elegant and nordic look. I'm currently living in Berlin.
